NAVIGATING THE GRANT SUBMISSION PROCESS AT UVM: WHO CAN HELP ME?

Writing and submitting your first grant proposal can seem like a daunting task. On top of your science or scholarship there are lots of requirements to fulfill from the funding agency, as well as compliance with federal and institutional policies. This discussion will introduce new or inexperienced grant seekers to the offices and resources on campus that support researchers as they submit a grant proposal.

Thursday, October 27, 2016

12:00 – 1:00 pm

427A Waterman conference room

Since 2007, Dr. Haraldsen has assisted principal investigators from diverse disciplines in the preparation and submission of grant and federal contract proposals to a variety of funding agencies. In her role in the OVPR, she provides grantsmanship, writing and editing support to faculty, particularly new and early-stage investigators. She also provides support for large or complex proposal submissions.

This series of “brown bag” discussions will occur monthly (last Thursday of each month)
